The Utah Construction Cost Index is composed of seven indicator items and it is based on the total quantities used during 1987. These items are used to indicate the price trend for roadway excavations, surfacing and structures. These indexes and the composite index are shown on the accompanying table and graphs for the period from 1966 to present. The indicator items account for 33.9% of the total costs for projects bid during the fourth quarter of 2007.

Roadway Excavation - $6.26 per cubic yard

This price decreased $4.36 per cu. yd. from the average unit price of $10.62, which was last bid the first quarter of 2008.

Bituminous Surface Mix - $68.62 per ton

This price decreased $1.53 per ton from the average unit price of $70.15 which was last bid the first quarter of 2008.

Bitumen - $582.85 per ton

This price decreased $45.99 per ton from the average unit price of $628.84 which was last bid the first quarter of 2008.

*P.C.C.P. (9"-11" Thick)- $55.51 per Sq. Yd.

This price decreased $8.00 per ton from the average unit price of $63.51, which was last bid the fourth quarter of 2006.

Reinforcing Steel - $1.58 per pound

This price increased $0.19 per pound from the average unit price of $1.39 which was last bid the first quarter of 2008.

Structural Steel - $2.41 per pound

This price decreased $0.25 per pound from the average unit price of $2.66 which was last bid the first quarter of 2008.

Structural Concrete - $605.33 per cubic yard

This price decreased $163.51 per cu. yd. from the average unit price of $776.58 which was last bid the first quarter of 2008.

*For the purpose of providing an index, the average of the preceding year was used.

For the purpose of providing an index where quarterly data is skewed, the average of the preceeding two quarters was used.
